Short-term bounce is gamma-supported and low-confidence; medium/long unconfirmed. Engine: “adding size into a low-confidence risk-on signal late-cycle is an asymmetric mistake.” Book holds 5–23% cash after selling into strength.

TIER 1 SOURCES — CURRENT OUTLOOKS

SOURCE	STANCE	CURRENT VIEW
Howell (CrossBorder)	MIXED	“Treasury QE” regime is inherently inflationary and supports speculation — but global liquidity momentum has stalled ($194.9T, SMB flat) and 10yr may test 6%. Buy hard-asset dips; systemic tripwire is Japan (JGB 3% forcing UST selling).
Gromen (FFTT)	MIXED	Turned tactically constructive on reflation: CRB breakout, deglobalization capex (domestic energy/industrial), EU repatriating €300B. Structurally still: bill-funded deficits are inflationary; long UST support ops are “QE-Twist being misrepresented.”
Green	BEARISH	Vibecession worsening — record-low sentiment vs 4% unemployment; Warsh tightening into a stressed consumer. Global duration exodus (JGB/bund/gilt highs) removes the bond anchor. New structural piece: degraded enforcement → unreliable price signals.
Hedgeye	MIXED	Selective rotation, not broad risk-on: adding South Africa (EZA) + Bitcoin (IBIT); cutting value/equal-weight longs; short AMDY. Crypto trend trackers bullish (AVAX/XRP). Quad framing whipsawed Quad 1↔Quad 3/4 on the oil shock.
42 Macro	MIXED	KISS portfolio defensive: 60% floating-rate (USFR), 30% global equity (VT), 0% gold, 10% Bitcoin (at 100% of its allowed max). Cash-heavy, selectively risk-on in crypto only.
Berg	BULLISH	EDGE model 100% invested since the Apr 10 BUY (+9.1%); 12-mo SPX target 8,286–8,958. Flags thin breadth (3.7% of mkt cap at 52wk highs) and 30yr at 5.25%; flips defensive only on an ~8% drawdown.
Santiago (featured)	BULLISH	BRICS audit: 16 of 17 initiatives non-operational; emergency facility still requires IMF conditionality — de-dollarization narrative “structurally hollow.” Dollar-bullish into Friday’s New Delhi summit (Sep 12–13). Weekly ledger: stagflationary tape, 4 rate repricings in 5 sessions.

THREE RISKS TO WATCH

- 1. Gamma flip / false breakout. Dealer positive gamma above SPX ~7,750 is suppressing volatility artificially. A catalyst that flips dealers short-gamma converts the calm into a self-reinforcing selloff with no structural support beneath — the engine’s dominant near-term risk.
- 2. Global long-end unraveling, Japan first. JGBs at 3% (highest since 1996), bunds/gilts at decade-plus highs, 30yr UST at 5.25% — foreign appetite for US duration fading as supply grows. Howell’s named systemic tripwire; Treasury already intervening (“he knows something”).
- 3. Stagflation re-acceleration. WTI ~$91 on US–Iran strikes + payrolls ~3× expectations + Sept hike odds ~58% + core PCE sticky at 3.3% — the Fed tightening into an already-stressed consumer. A hot CPI or Hormuz escalation breaks the medium-term horizon bearish.

MODEL GUIDANCE BY ASSET CLASS (Tier 2 Neutral · late cycle · 8% position caps)

ASSET CLASS	MODEL LEAN	RATIONALE
Equities (broad)	NEUTRAL	Baseline weights; participate, don’t chase. Short-term bounce is low-confidence and gamma-supported; hold dry powder for the pullback case.
Bonds (long duration)	BEARISH	Strongest cross-source consensus on the page: yields converge up toward 6–8% NGDP; buyer base eroding. Keep duration at cycle lows; favor floating-rate/short bills for cash.
Gold	BULLISH	Post-Warsh dip (−$160 to ~$4,470) is a buyable overreaction per Howell; driven by PBoC liquidity + Treasury-QE debasement, not Fed policy. Preferred hard-asset expression.
Crypto	MIXED	Constructive but strictly sized: 42 Macro at max BTC sleeve, Hedgeye trend-bullish — but Howell’s ~3-mo liquidity lead says the stalled liquidity impulse hits crypto first. Small, tactical.
Emerging markets	MIXED	Selective adds only (Hedgeye buying South Africa; EM favored in reflation) — but late-cycle and dollar-resilience (Santiago) cap conviction. Keep EMEQ-sized starters.
International (ex-US)	MIXED	Constructive ex-Europe tilt (Japan/LatAm via CGXU) on US–Europe economic-warfare risk; EU’s €300B repatriation supports local markets over US flows. Japan rate risk argues currency-aware sizing.
Value stocks	NEUTRAL	Preferred over growth late-cycle (dividends/defensives, quality income) — though even Hedgeye trimmed broad value this week. Hold, don’t add aggressively.
Growth stocks	BEARISH	Underweight the crowded leadership: Mag 7 rolling over, high-beta −24% over 3 months, hyperscaler FCF compressing. Express growth via hedged/income structures (KSPY/SPYI-style), not momentum.
